IRA L. SHAFFER IS BOUND OVER TO GRAND JURY

Pleads Not Guilty to Manslaughter Charge; Furnishes $1,500 Bond, Released

FOUND AT UNCLE'S HOME

Drives Auto into Street Car; Wife Dies from Injuries in Crash

Ira L. Shaffer, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of his wife, Mrs. Ellen Shaffer, which resulted from injuries sustained when an automobile driven by her husband crashed into a street car on W. Center-st, Sunday night, pleaded not guilty and waived examination when arraigned before Mayor Earl M. Hazen, late Tuesday afternoon, and was bound over to the grand jury on a bond of $1,500. The bond was furnished and Shaffer was released.

The husband was intoxicated at the time of the collision, according to testimony of police officials.

Shaffer was taken into custody by Officer James Cusick about 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the home of his uncle, William McEldowney, 556 Toledo-av. His father, W. J. Shaffer of Toledo-av, accompanied him and the officer to the mayor's office and arranged for furnishing the bond.

Shaffer's case will come before the next session of the grand jury to be held early in January.

Shaffer Small Man

Shaffer, a man of extremely small stature, showed the results of injuries sustained in the wreck when brought before the mayor. His right eye was discolored and there were several cuts and bruises on his face. It is believed that he may also have one or more fractured ribs.

The wreck which resulted in Mrs. Shaffer's death occurred shortly before 7 o'clock, Sunday night, in front of the Junior High School building on W. Center-st. Shaffer, driving east in his Willys-Knight touring car, is charged with having swerved the machine headon into an approaching street car.

Auto Wrecked

The automobile was demolished and the four occupants, Mr. and Mrs. Shaffer and Mr. and Mrs. Orville Liggett of W. Columbia-st, were injured but all excepting Mrs. Shaffer escaped with nothing more serious than cuts and bruises.

Funeral services for Mrs. Shaffer were held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Toledo-av Mission, with Rev. William Bowman, pastor of the Mission, in charge. Burial took place at Marion Cemetery. The body was taken Tuesday afternoon to the home of Mr. and Mrs. William McEldowney where it remained until time for the funeral.

HORNSBY'S MOTHER IS NOT EXPECTED TO LIVE

Manager of St. Louis Cardinals in Communication with Texas Relatives

New York, Sept. 29—Rogers Hornsby, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, here to engage the New York Yankees in the world series, today sat at the telephone receiving messages from the bedside of his mother, Mrs. M. D. Hornsby, critically ill at Austin, Texas.

Hornsby spent a sleepless night and this morning in a conversation with his aunt in Austin, learned that his mother was not expected to live until nightfall. He was unable to say if he would play in the series.

Early today Hornsby called his aunt, at the bedside of Mrs. Hornsby on the long distance telephone and his heart was heavy as he quit the line.

"She isn't expected to live through the day," he said a few minutes later. "She's sinking fast, but I have hopes that she may rally."

Her Greatest Ambition

Then came the moment of tragedy for Hornsby, placed in a delimma that would test the courage of a strong man anywhere as he attempted to reach a decision on the possibility of playing in the forthcoming series.

"It was her greatest ambition in life," he said slowly, "to have me play in the world series. She used to pray that we would win and she gave me the encouragement to which I owe much of what I've done. Her interest in the series was real, not pretended because I am her son, but genuine."

"This morning, my aunt told me that the last thing mother told her was that

SIX PUPS BORN WITHOUT TAILS

Fashions in dogdom will be decidedly "bobbed" if the litter of pups born to a dog belonging to S. W. Almendinger, southwest of the city, yesterday, have any say in the matter. The pups, which are full blood fox terriers, all were born with no tails. Otherwise they are just what a well bred fox terrier puppy should be.

DECISION ON OIL LEASES TO BE APPEALED

Supreme Court Must Now Take Famous Naval Reserve Cases

TEAPOT DOME CANCELED

Sinclair Ruling by Federal Body Important Victory for Ohioan

Washington, Sept. 29—The Supreme Court must now decide the famous naval oil reserve cases.

Attorneys for Harry F. Sinclair are expected to appeal at once to the Supreme Court for a reversal of the decision of the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals, which ordered cancellation of the Mammoth Oil Company's lease to Teapot Dome.

The court already has granted an appeal to E. L. Doheny, whose lesse to the Elk Hills naval oil reserve was declared void by Federal Courts in California.

Besides these civil suits, appeals on criminal indictments against Sinclair, Doheny and ex-Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall are now pending in the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

Argument Monday

Months, and perhaps years, may elapse before a final determination is made of all the oil cases which grew out of the senate's investigation during the winter and spring of 1923-24.

Arguments in the Doheny case are to be heard by the Supreme Court on

FORTY PEDDLERS COMPLY WITH NEW LICENSE LAW

Large Number Make Application Since Enactment of Regulatory Measure

Forty peddlers' licenses have been issued since the city's new ordinance regulating house-to-house canvassing went into effect Sept. 9, records at the office of the city clerk show. A large part of the applications were from trucksters marketing fall produce from farms and gardens. Permits for the sale of silk hosiery and underwear are also prominent in the list.

During the first two weeks following the date that the ordinance went in effect the licensing committee was kept busy passing on applications. The rush has subsided, however, and only occasional applications are exected until after Jan. 1 when all peddlers and agents will be required to take out permits. Only those who had not been granted permits prior to Sept. 9 are included in the 40 whose applications came before the committee under the provisions of the new ordinance.

Nearly 100 peddlers' licenses have been issued annually in the past.

NO MILK PRICE BOOST EXPECTED IN MARION

Increase Contemplated in Other Sections Because of Weather Effect on Corn

Although a raise in the retail price of milk is contemplated in Cleveland, according to report, no increase in the milk price is seen here, managers of local dairies said today.

Unsettled weather conditions that have harrassed the green corn crop and have retarded plans are blamed for the proposed increase in Cleveland. The Ohio Farmers' Co-operative Milk Association, in conference in Cleveland, has resorted to Detroit and Toledo as a supply source. R. W. Strong, manager of the association declares.

The present retail price of milk in Marion is 12 cents a quart and seven cents a pint. In Cleveland, where the increase is anticipated, the present price is 14 cents a quart.

OHIO GRAPE GROWERS ASK MARKET FOR PRODUCT

Columbus, Sept. 29 — A committee from the Ohio Grape Growers' Association today asked Cyrus Locher, director of commerce for state aid in finding a market for their product.

They told Locher that many owners of vineyards in Ohio face bankruptcy because the public hesitates to buy raw grape juice for fear of raids by prohibition agents.

Locher promised all co-operation possible.

CRIPPLED SEVEN YEARS, TO MANAGE SHOP

Miss Dorothea Antel

NEW YORK, Sept. 29—Seven years ago a lively, charming young actress, playing out from New York in "The Night Boat," slipped at the head of a back-stage stairway fell and so severely injured her spine that she has not been able to move from her bed since.

But the actress, Miss Dorothea Antel, did not lapse into dour hopelessness. Her bedside has been the gathering place of high-spirited friends of the footlight world who have brought her cheer and hope.

But she knew she could never take her place on the stage again nor, for that matter, leave her invalid's bed. So she laid her plans accordingly. For some time she has dreamed of setting up a shop of her own, a shop of novel appeal which would give her something to do—and make her self-supporting.

Her dream has come true. For "The Sunshine Shop" is to open soon on an important uptown street. Houdini and a whole troupe of actors and actresses will make the opening a gala event. Houdini will pick the lock on the front door by way of opening the shop and the rest of the party will serve as assistants, welcoming the first customers, waiting on them and entertaining.

And back in her room Dorothea Antel, shop keeper extraordinary, will take her ledger in hand and begin the serious business of running a modern novelty shop.

City's Dumping Ground to be Retained as Future Park Site, Councilmen Intimate

Proposed Sale Practically Abandoned After Complaints Are Registered; Property at Patten and Patterson-Sts Formerly Quarry

The city's dumping ground, located at the corner of Patten and Patterson-sts, will be retained as public property and eventually used as a park, according to present indications. At a recent meeting of the city council, when complaints about objectionable conditions existing at the dump was filed, it was proposed that the property be sold and steps were taken to have the matter submitted to the voters at the November election.

Members of the City Council now indicate, however, that the proposed sale has been abandoned. Investigation has shown that when the property was purchased about 15 years ago, it was the understanding that when it had served its purpose as a dumping ground it would be converted into a public park. Another argument against selling the place is that it could not possibly bring a price of much more than $1,000 and site would be several times that figure, that the value of the land as a park

Dead Issue

The question was discussed recently in a conference of councilmen and other city officials and as a result the sale proposal has virtually become a dead issue. It is likely, however, that dumping of refuge will be stopped and steps taken to cover the entire space with a soil surface, thus eliminating the conditions that have been the cause of recent complaints. Work of preparing the place for use as a park would not be started before next year, at the earliest.

400 FIGHTING THROUGH ROCK TO RESCUE MEN

Dramatic Race Underground Against Death May Be Finished Friday

160 FEET FROM GOAL

Workers Fail To Think of Themselves as They Face Untold Dangers

Ironwood, Mich., Sept. 29—"Possibly Friday."

This word predicting the time of rescue of the 43 men buried in the G Pabst mine here was passed about today as 400 men fought their way through rock and ore and in their dramatic race underground against death.

With all four rescue operations well under way, though being conducted in the F. Aurora mine promised the most hope for rescue of the men who have been imprisoned on the eighth level of the G Pabst mine since Friday noon.

Most Difficult Part

Sweating shifts of husky miners poured out of the mouth of the mine every four hours. They reported that they had gone through what they believed was the most difficult cutting they would encounter. Since Monday afternoon they have drilled and blasted hard jasper rock for the most part, but by making a series of cross cuts yesterday, a bore through softer ground has been started in the direction of the imprisoned men.

This rescue crew, consisting of about 30 men, still was approximately 160 feet from its goal. The men were working upward on a 45-degree incline.

Optimistic reports continued to come

DECLARES GERMANY TO MEET HER REPARATIONS

American Ambassador Makes Prediction Following Call on President Coolidge

Washington, Sept. 29—Germany will meet her reparations payment of 1,500,000,000 marks just as she paid to the last cent the 1,200,000,000 marks during the year just closed, Jacob Gould Shurman, American ambassador to Berlin, predicted today following a call on President Coolidge.

The ambassador is taking a two months vacation in this country.

Schurman reported conditions in Germany to be excellent. The only real problem, he said, is the 1,500,000 of unemployed which the German government is now helping. He pointed out, however, that probably half of this number were out of work before the war.

The most amazing thing, the ambassador said, is the change in the relations between Germany and France. Where 15 months ago, a bitter and open hatred existed between the two countries, he said this has been now virtually wiped out.

SUPREME COURT IS REQUESTED TO DENY MOTION

Primary Defense League Wants Move To Dissolve Temporary Order Overruled

KNIGHT HEADS NEW BODY

Referendum Committee Becomes Modification Committee

Columbus, Sept. 29—The Supreme Court was asked by the Primary Defense League today to overrule the motion of Assistant Attorney General H. H. Griswold seeking to dissolve the temporary order restraining Secretary of State Thad Brown from placing on the November election ballots a proposed constitutional amendment affecting Ohio's primary system.

The request was filed by James A. White, counsel for the Primary Defense League.

The temporary order against Brown was granted by the court recently to ex-State Senator John E. Burke, of Elyria, chairman of the league.

A hearing on Burke's request to make the restraining order permanent, is scheduled for tomorrow before the court.

Burke's committee seeks to prevent a referendum in the November election on the proposal to modify the direct primary system.

STATE ENGINEER IS STAR WITNESS IN ALLER TRIAL

Testifies He Found Sacks of Cement with Seals Broken, Contents Missing

J. I. Oberlander, state highway engineer and inspector, was the state's star witness today in the first round of the trial of L. L. Aller, LaRue, prominent Marion County contractor, indicted two weeks ago on charges of "fraud in connection with a public work."

Aller has the contract for the construction of the Marion-Delaware-rd from Waldo south to the county line and, as sub-contractor of Anatine & Carey of Kenton, has been constructing concrete curbs along the northern section of the pike.

In the indictment Aller is charged with "carrying away quantities of cement from various sacks and not using the amount called for in the plans and specifications of the roads."

Oberlander, employed in the vicinity of the Marion-Delaware-rd since work began on the pike, today testified as to the truth of the charges.

Claims Seals Broken

The highway engineer declared on the witness stand that he found certain sacks of cement weighing less than the manufacturers's guarantee and also declared that seals on the sacks were broken.

Oberlander made the discovery a few weeks ago when, upon arriving at work at Lynn Station, Pleasant Township, he saw Friends Redd, of Waldo, an employe of Aller, leap from a box car containing sacks of cement, carrying in his hand a few empty cement bags, according to the inspector's testimony.

Redd, Oberlander declared, ran

OUSTER SUIT AGAINST MAYOR TO PROCEED OCT. 1

Steubenville, Sept. 29—The ouster suit against Mayor John S. H. Patton will proceed Oct. 1, it was indicated today following an overruling by Judge J. S. Paisley, of two motions and a demurrer in the official's behalf.

Attorneys for the mayor, who was suspended for alleged failure to perform his duties, claimed that he had been illegally served and that the ouster statute was unconstitutional.

The hearing of Chief of Police Blaine Carter, will not be set until service can be obtained. He is said to be "out of town on business."

VERA CRUZ IS REPORTED LAID WASTE BY STORM

All Lines of Communication Paralyzed by Tropical Hurricane in Mexico

FIFTY VILLAGES STRUCK

Second Twister Is Feared; Officials Believe Many May Be Dead

Mexico City, Sept. 29—With all lines of communication paralyzed and only ominous silence from a hundred square miles of territory in Vera Cruz state laid waste by the tropical hurricane which swept over the region yesterday, the outside world today could only guess at the extent of the damage and the loss of life in the isolated region.

Fragmentary wireless reports received here from Vera Cruz City stated the hurricane was accompanied by a tidal wave. The principal parts of the city were reported under five feet of water and that still rising.

Fifty smaller centers of population, including Cordoba and Jalapa, were struck by the fury of the storm and dozens of the smaller villages were virtually wiped off the map.

Four Steamers Sunk

Four steamers in Vera Cruz harbor were reported sunk and their crews lost.

Although government officials say it will be impossible to accurately estimate the extent of the storm damage and the loss of life, it is feared that hundreds have perished. Efforts by the American embassy to communicate with the American consulate in Vera Cruz and ascertain whether any American lives were lost have been unsuccessful.

The telegraph office reports all messages to the storm region remain undelivered because all lines are down. Repairmen are at work endeavoring to re-establish contact with the stricken area.

Fears Second Hurricane

The Weather Bureau fears that a second hurricane, possibly of greater intensity than that of yesterday may now be raging between the cities of Vera Cruz, Jalapa and Cordoba.

The storm is the periodical equinoctial disturbance, but of unusually severe nature, known as "Cordonazo San Francisco."

A special train left Mexico City last night carrying government officials, engineers of the Department of Communication, army officers and American and Mexican newspaper correspondents. The train had orders to rim eastward as far as possible and to make every effort to reach the port of Vera Cruz.

EXTEND SEARCH OVER OHIO FOR STOLEN CHILD

Kidnapers Crept into Orwell Home, Detectives Believe; Girl's Cry Heard

Cleveland, Sept. 29.—A search that extended throughout Ohio was on today for the kidnapers who crept into the room of Isabel Zendarski, three year old daughter of a farmer of Orwell, Ohio, and stole the child a week ago.

Cleveland detectives, aiding in the search after local authorities had appealed to them, were puzzled as to the motive of the kidnapers. The Zendarski family, so far as can be learned had no enemies, and the family is not wealthy, but is modest circumstances.

Posses have searched the woods, ravines and countryside surrounding Orwell, working on the belief that the child may have been kidnaped by a degenerate and murdered, but so far no trace has been found.

The baby was asleep in a room with her baby brother, Edward, and her sister Viola.

Apparently the kidnapers entered through a window, and then closed the window on leaving. Persons living near the Zendarski home reported they heard an auto pass on the night the child disappeared, and heard a child cry "Mamma" from the machine, but attached no significance to the incident at the time.

County authorities were considering offering a reward.

Erie's Gasoline Car Has Six Cylinders, Steam Heat and is Electrically Lighted

Capable of Attaining Speed of 50 Miles an Hour; Makes Run from Marion to Huntington in Less Than Four Hours

... will go 50 miles ... is lighted with ... in the use of ... looking outfit. ... description of a new ... world. It is ... of the fine points of ... making the daily ... Marion and Huntington. ... the exception of ... Sunday, at 6 o'clock, the gas car emits its "honk, honk" and clangs its bell, moving westward from the Union Station. At 9:50 it chugs into the Huntington station.

Each morning, with the exception of Sunday, at 9 o'clock, the same car sounds a similar cry as it pulls out of the Huntington station, eastward bound to Marion and intermediate points. About 1 o'clock it chugs into Marion again.

Seventy gallons of gasoline is used on the round trip, a distance of approximately 254 miles.

Not only does the car have a capacity for 42 persons but it is also equipped with 17 feet of space to take care of baggage and mail.

Crew of Three

The crew consists of three persons, a conductor, baggageman and engineer. On yesterday's run I. N. Robey filled the position of conductor, Ed Gussman was engineer and H. B. Brown was baggageman. A different crew may take the run today while yesterday's trio will work the westward run from Huntington to Chicago on a local train.

The gas car has been in use on the Erie for some time and is one of the most popular trains on the division.

The "Toonerville," as the gas car is called by railroaders, is steam heated. Generators furnish electricity for lights and the car has all the merits and comforts of a train or automobile.

The gas car makes the trip one way, a distance of 127 miles, in less than four hours, an average speed of over 30 miles an hour, with many stops to retard its progress. When the operator "steps on 'er" the Toonerville will speed along at more than 50 miles an hour.

There are no cinders or smoke and other inconveniences of the locomotive and as long as the carburetor is supplied with gas and the engine is hitting on "all six," the gasoline outfit will hold its own in the high estimation of its many patrons along the line.

Fall Excursions

With the summer vacation season past, posters hailing the arrival of the autumn season are seen in the Union Station.

Trips of every nature, ranging from journeys along the Mediterranean Sea to jaunts across the Atlantic to Ireland, are being presented to the traveling public for the fall and winter season.

Railroads, however, have little to do in connection with the many offers with the exception of carrying the passengers to the Atlantic or Pacific Ocean where they are to embark on their journey across the water.

King Feisal of Iraq Unable To Suppress Yawn at League

GENEVA, Sept. 29—King Feisal of Iraq is in Switzerland on a holiday. And when the Arabian ruler is on holiday—he's on holiday and that's all there is to it. He dropped in on a session of the League of Nations, the other day, out of decent consideration for the international amenities. And besides, Iraq hopes to enter the League one of these day. . . . King Feisal sat politely and listened to the proceedings. King Feisal stifled a yawn. King Feisal yawned openly—arose and left the place. Questioned afterward, under more congenial circumstances, he confessed that the League bored him. . . . He has left for Chamonix to continue his holiday. So far as can be determined the League of Nations is not in session there.

HUBER COMPANY PLANS TO ENTER CHICAGO EXHIBIT

Marion Concern To Show Two Road Rollers at Convention Jan. 11

The Huber Manufacturing Co. of this city is planning to exhibit two road building rollers this year at the twenty-fourth annual convention and road show of the American Road Builders' Association to be held in Chicago, Jan. 11, it was announced today at the company's plant.

Last year the Huber company exhibited only one roller. At that time considerable attention was attracted by the many new features introduced. This year with the showing of two rollers it is the hopes of the Huber officials that more attention, if possible, will be attracted.

Vice President A. W. Newby will go to the Chicago meeting this year with a party of eight or 10 representatives from the Huber Manufacturing Co.

Governors' Day

More than 27 active and former governors will be asked to participate in a governors' day program during the show, according to announcement received today from association president, H. G. Shirley, Richmond, Va.

"The governors' day program will be held Tuesday, Jan. 11.

"Special problems of interest to state executives in the construction and maintenance of their state highway systems will be discussed by speakers of international importance on governors' day," Mr. Shirley said. "The delegates will be welcomed by Governor Len Small of Illinois, according to present plans.

$3,000,000 Exhibit

"Arrangements for the entertainment of the chief state executives will include a banquet in their honor to be given by the officials of the American Road Builders' Association. SEEK "COMMON SENSE" METHODS

Lincoln Andrews, left, and Chester P. Mills, District administrators of the Volstead act gather in Washington to discuss ways and means of enforcing the prohibition laws. Chester P. Mills, in charge of prohibition enforcement in New York, was joined in his plea for "common sense" by General Andrews, who heads up the nation's dry force. Mr. Mills advocates ignoring the small "hip flash" business in favor of bigger game.

SUPREME COURT IS NOW FACING HEAVY DOCKET

Final Phases of Actions in Fall and Daugherty Cases To Come Up

Washington, Sept. 29—The final phases of two of the most bitterly contested court actions growing out of the famous Daugherty and Fall senatorial investigations of 1924 will be reached in the United States Supreme Court in its long session beginning October 2.

The court is confronted by one of the heaviest dockets in years, including a test of the removal of the power of the president, many demands for interpretation of the liquor laws and cases growing out of the World War which involve huge sums of money.

Mal Daugherty, brother of former Attorney General Harry S. Daugherty, is making his last stand in the high court against the efforts of the Brookhart senate committee to force him to produce confidential records of the Midland National Bank of Washington Court House, Ohio.

Daugherty's Case

Met by Daugherty's stubborn refusal to divulge the records the committee preferred charges of contempt against the senate. Daugherty's attorneys will ask the highest court to rule that the power of a senatorial investigating committee does not permit it to enter the vaults of a bank to secure evidence which it believes will involve a cabinet officer.

The fight of Edward L. Doheny, California oil magnate, to prevent the government cancellation of valuable oil leases in the Elk Hills naval reserve will be among the first big cases to be argued. After winning a partial victory in the district court, the government won everything it sought in the circuit court of appeals.

The court will be called upon to decide whether the $100,000 Doheney advanced to Fall was a bribe, as contended by the government, or a loan, as maintained by Doheny.

Prohibition Cases

Two of the most important prohibition cases involve the validity of the limitation of prescription liquor, brought by Dr. Samuel W. Lambert, of New York, and the constitutionality of laws providing for the seizure and sale of automobiles used in liquor running.

President Coolidge's power to remove a postmaster before his term has expired is called into question by Frank S. Myers, former postmaster of Portland, Oregon. Myers raises the question of whether a man appointed by the president with confirmation of the senate can be removed without the senate's consent.

Many cases growing out of the World War are on the court's calendar. Five thousand German dye patents and trade marks are involved in the government's suit against the Chemical Foundation.

German Property Cases

A score of law suits involve the seizure of German-owned property during the war. In one case the Atlas Line Steamship Co. is seeking to recover for the seizure of vessels, which it purchased from the German-owned Hamburg American line five days before war was declared. More than $50,000,000 is involved in suits growing out of the seizure of ships.

Two state syndicalism laws—California and Michigan—are called into question in the court in the cases of Charlotte Anita Whitney and C. E. Ruthenberg.

Important decisions are expected to result from two suits attacking the zoning ordinances of Minneapolis and Los Angeles. The theatrical world is watching the case of Max Hart against the B. F. Keith Vaudeville Exchange, in which he charges the Keith and Orpheum circuits have combined to control "big time" vaudeville bookings in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

Vice President Clifford Ward was elected to succeed Mr. Pemisteu as president of the Steam Shovel Company's Apprentice Club and John Stengel was elected vice president by popular vote.

Other routine business effecting the winter program will be discussed at the next meeting which will be held the last Monday in October.

Social Activities

Chairman Lester Alexander named John Rife and Walter Miller to assist in arranging a program for a Halloween party which is scheduled to be held the latter part of next month when women will be entertained as guests. The party will be held in the company's new gymnasium, providing it is finished for occupancy.

Night school classes, similar to those offered in high school, will start the first of October in the company's plant. A number of subjects will be offered along the most practical lines pertaining to industry nd mechanical trades. The night school classes will start under the direction of five instructors already in the employ of the company and in case an unexpected number of students enroll the number of instructors will be increased and possibly doubled.

A number of the students enrolled in mechanical drawing classes already organized are instructed Saturday morning's at Harding High School. All time in the class rooms is on the company, the same as the many meetings and other time spent when production is not required.

Company Is Progressive

By this method the company has learned to produce more efficient employes who are in line for promotion in the company's organization. This is the only actual benefit the company receives from its greatly increased annual operating expense. In addition to operating the apprentice school at considerable expense the company is also equipping an old machine shop at an expense of near $50,000 simply for the purpose of offering the employes something better.

Many Courses

Fifteen courses are offered in the school for apprentices. Hours for study and work run into the thousands. The young men just out of high school and some from college enjoy the opportunity and do their work with a spirit that is promising. They are enthusiastic and miss very few chances to get ahead.

No Opportunity In Europe

"In Europe," explained Vice President King, "the young men have very little chance to develop and grow into success. Thre they only attain success as a birthright. European young men and boys in your circumstances only hope to continue in the same poistions the remainder of their days."

JOURNALISM PROVES TO BE VERY POPULAR STUDY

Subject Introduced Several Years Ago at Harding High Attracts Many Students

Journalism is pronounced the most popular subject studied in Harding High School this year. Since its introduction several years ago more students have enrolled in journalism classes last year than in any of the other subjects, about 45 being an average class in this subject. The popularity of journalism has become so great that it was found necessary to confine the class to students of a specified scholarship grade.

The subject is taught by Miss Lucile Foreman. Editing of the weekly school paper, the Quiver, is also under her supervision.

The popularity of journalism is attributed to the fact that all students find the subject interesting, unusual, and a break from the monotony of strictly book knowledge. The course includes actual experience in writing and editing a paper. Such work affords a student a position of some importance and prominence in the school, hence the popularity of the fascinating subject, journalism.

Cold Weather Brings Human Derelicts to City's Warm Prison for Night's Lodging

"Gentlemen of the Road" Come from All Sections of Country; Records Show from 400 to 500 Lodged During Month Last Winter

With the arrival of cold weather, Marion's city prison is beginning to function again as a nightly lodging place for the human derelicts who bear the traditional title of "hobo." Tuesday night about 20 of these penniless and unkempt travellers were provided with sleeping quarters in the municipal lock-up and if history repeats itself the daily quota of guests will continue at somewhere near the same figure, even reaching larger proportions occasionally.

These 'gentlemen of the road" come from all sections of the country. They are of various ages and kinds, some showing evidences of shabby gentility and intelligence, while others are just ordinary tramps of low mentality and ragged attire. A few are in search of employment but their number is considerably exceeded by the ones whose chief aim and ambition is to sidestep work.

No War "Hoboes"

The American hobo practically disappeared during the period of the World War and for several years none of his kind sought refuge at the local lodging house, police department officials say. During recent years, however, there has been a steady increase in the ranks of the penniless itinerants until now the army is back to something near its pre-war stage.

Last winter, the number of hobo lodgers at the city prison averaged between 400 and 500 monthly and this year there are indications that this figure will be equalled if not exceeded.

While the city prison is comparatively small, a large number of these guests can be jammed into the limited quarters. The guests are not choicy about their accommodations and have a peculiar faculty of being able to get in a good night's sleep on a concrete floor or any other surface of similar construction. When the number of lodgers at the prison reaches its peak, sometimes considerably above the score of guests accommodated Tuesday night, they find bunking places on tops of the cells and in every other available spot into which their tired bodies can be crammed. And that they sleep sound is apparent when all of them settle down in earnest and start a medley of snores and wheezes that rivals the best and most tumultous productions of modern jazz orchestras.

Given Soup

A number of years ago, before the war, required all citizens, hoboes not excepted, to engage in some useful occupation, special quarters were provided at the old city building on W. Church st to take care of the daily hords of ragged guests. In those days, the tramps were provided not only with lodging but each guests was warmed up with a bowl of soup served at the city's expense before he resumed his journey the following morning.

The municipal lodgings at that time and for years previous were generally referred to in the newspapers and by the public as "Hotel de Bum."

The soup feature is a thing of the past, and police deartment officials feel that they are doing all that can be expected to provide the visitors with shelter. Not only that, but they expect and require their guests to clean up the prison when morning comes. This work is done as well as a hobo could be expected to do work of any kind, although some of the least industrious of the visitors strive to make their get away while the clean-up process is under way.

Italy Makes Explanation.

It has become evident that there is to be no serious misunderstanding between this country and Italy as a result of the assault on Earl Brennan, American vice consul in Rome, on the 11th of the present month.

It was at first stated that the vice consul was assaulted as the result of feeling on the part of the Italian citizenship against him for the reason that he refused to be a party to the expediting of the admission of Italians into this country by liberality in passport requirements.

But Count Delfino Rogera di Villanova, first secretary of the Italian embassy in Washington, has assured the state department in a signed statement that the seriousness of the incident has been greatly magnified and that the blow suffered by the vice consul was purely accidental. He explains that the vice consul, in leaving a store, was accidentally struck with a stick in a row among members of a crowd in front of the store. With characteristic Italian detail in such matters, the first secretary says:

"The blow was absolutely casual and it is therefore, to be excluded that it was meant against Mr. Brennan as a foreigner, much less as a consul of the United States.

"The American consulate general immediately protested to the Royal Questura—police authorities—and directly received from it expressions of regret. In the meantime the Italian police received instructions to make every possible effort to identify the man responsible for the act.

"Even before the United States embassy had made any communication in the matter, the Italian ministry for foreign affairs sent the embassy a note fully explaining the occurrence and manifesting its concern. This note crossed its way with the note from the United States embassy, which was then acknowledged by the ministry with a second note confirming the information given and reiterating expressions of regret.

"The ministry for foreign affairs has instructed the ambassador to make it known somehow that the deplorable event was of a purely accidental nature and that it is in no way to be intended against Mr. Brennan, as vice consul of the United States, or as a foreigner, as it has been reported in certain quarters.

"The ministry for foreign affairs also directed the ambassador to confirm the feelings of deploration already manifested and to assure that orders have been given to do all that is possible to apprehend the guilty parties."

So that probably settles the case in Rome, but here is such manifest feeling, especially in southern Italy, over the rigorous enforcement of the quota provisions of our immigration law that it seems to us that this country should insist that Mr. Mussolini should either provide safeguards against the recurrence of such accidents or see to it that Italian shops are equipped with side or rear entrances for the use of our consular agents.

The Monuments We Leave.

The tomb of Sir Christopher Wren in St. Paul's cathedral in London bears this simple epitaph:

"If you are seeking my monument, look around."

It is not given to many of us to leave behind such a monument as that in which the bones of the great British architect repose, easily one of the finest and most beautiful specimens of church architecture extant. Nor can many of us leave so many imposing monuments as did Sir Christopher Wren. They may be found all about. Not only did he design St. Paul's, but also the superb cloister and chapel at Pembroke college, Oxford, the great central spire of Litchfield cathedral, Pembroke college chapel at Cambridge, the Sheldonian theater at Oxford, Temple Bar, Mary-le-Bow, St. Bride's, St. Stephen's, Durry Lane theater, the Royal Naval hospital, Marlborough House, the original towers of Westminster abbey, Hampton Court palace and many other notable structures of historic interest.

But poor indeed in accomplishment is he who does not leave some monument behind when he passes, which may be found by those who look around. It need not necessarily be of marble, brick, stone, steel or bronze. We today here in Marion pay tribute to a one-time resident who devoted the best that was in him in the way of thought and endeavor to a great work and left behind as a monument to his memory one of the finest and most beautiful cemeteries in all the country. He may leave behind a work of literature or the painter's art. He may leave behind a musical conception or the conception of some mechanical device which will be to the benefit of mankind. He may leave a son or daughter whose live will stand as a monument to him. He may leave a memory of an upright, christian life which will be accepted by his fellow-citizens as a priceless heritage. He may leave behind memories of words of sympathy or cheer in time of distress which will be treasured so long as memory lasts. O, there are innumerable monuments which man may leave behind, countless thousands upon thousands of them, and we have sometimes thought as precious as any of them are those which are visioned in the heart without having "to look around."

While there may be doubt regarding Mrs Dempsey's contention that Jack was "given something" preceding the bout, it's a cinch that he took something during it.

We are told that the Republicans of Texas have pledged their support to Mr. Coolidge, which makes manifest that in this respect at least the two of 'em are as one.

Three London girls make a livelihood by contracting to exterminate rats, mice, cockroaches and black beetles, their bags of rats averaging from 700 to 1,000 a week. Possibly not so heroic as swimming the English channel, but enough more profitable and beneficial to the public health and well-being.

What's so hard for us to understand is how it has come about that Queen Marie, of Roumania, in the event that she comes to America, is to visit Cincinnati, Columbus and other commonplace centers of population and not stop off here in the very heart of the garden spot of the world. Really, it looks to us as though our good friend at the head of the chamber of commerce had overlooked a bet.

It's a million-to-one proposition that the Boston pastor, who advocates long engagements that the mutual love of young people may be tested, will never establish a marrying record.

There's always the fly in the ointment, as the old saying goes, of which we are reminded by the coming of fall. While less laughter and giggling in the night season may come from nearby front porches as cold weather sets in, it's going to be a lot harder for young America to start his motor after it has been chilling for four or five hours.

Former Secretary Hughes, upon his return from Europe, told dock reporters in response to a query about possible political activities on his part: "I am going back to my desk and pick up my work where I left off. I am a lawyer now." And one can hardly blame Mr. Hughes considering how much more brightly he shines as a lawyer than he ever did as a politician.

Europeans simply can not understand how we Americans prosper as we do, possibly owing to their inability to realize that conditions over here are such that it's easier to attain prosperity than it is to miss it.

While the $9,000,000 fortune inherited by that Kewanee, Illinois, iron-worker was wholly mythical, the fact that he was able to buy eight automobiles and about everything up and down the line each way from them on the strength of his reported riches rather goes to show that he is ideally qualified to burn up a fortune should he ever receive one. In fact, the art he manifested in that line in itself had a tendency to strengthen the impression that there could be no question about his inheritance.

Vagrant Verse.

THE LITTLE BROWN HILLS

Everest, Greyback, Whitney, Lowe,
I think when the good God wished to show
The might of His power He built them high
And hung them up 'twixt earth and sky;
For to show the sons of Ham and Shem,
And Japhet painting, He painted them.
With a mighty brush, with gorgeous hue—
But the little brown hills He made them too.

The mountain it is a changing thing,
With the shifting colors the seasons bring,
As up its great gaunt reaches crawl
The green of springtime, the brown of fall,
Marking their coming, marking their flight,
The yellow of summer, the winter's white,
While the little brown hills lie close to ground
And keep one color the whole year round.

The mountain belongs to who has sight
Of its high-flung peaks, or day or night,
And the mariner out where the black waves comb
Claims it, steers by its snowcap home:
The wanderer follows it through the sand
Of the desert wastes to a kindlier land,
But the little brown hills belong to those
Who live within their shadows close.

Climate or Homesickness.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Recently I wrote an article about tuberculosis. A reader in New Mexico has written me a kind letter regarding it.

It was stated in this article that it made little difference what climate is chosen for its cure. By giving due regard to certain general principles, recovery from tuberculosis can take place in any climate. It would be discouraging indeed if this were not the case. It is not within the financial ability of the average victim of tuberculosis to take a trip to some remote section of the country.

Out-of-door life is of first importance in handling these patients. Sunlight is of great value. Absence of rain is desirable.

I recall the bitterness with which a patient and her husband complained of the cold weather in a northern tuberculosis sanitarium. The patient said she could not endure to sit out of doors when there were four feet of snow on the ground and the temperature was below zero. No matter how warmly clad she might be, she was unpleasantly affected by the biting atmosphere.

Fortunately, most persons become so accustomed to the changes of weather and season that they do not mind them. On this account the average person will do almost, if not quite, as well in one climate as in another.

My correspondent wrote very earnestly. He said he tried in vain to recover his health in eastern resorts and was not restored to normal until he went to Albuquerque. I quote from his letter:

"It may happen that my own case is peculiar, but I know of hundreds of others who need the same high, dry atmosphere that we happen to have here. I was unable to stand the dampness and the cold of the East, and I believe that the same thing is true of a great many others."

There is a lot of truth in what this writer says. Dampness and cold and lack of sunshine are detrimental to the speedy relief of tuberculosis. If the patient can afford to go to the Southwest, there are advantages in the climate which would justify the trip.

I desire, however, to speak of another matter which bears an important relationship to recovery. There must be contentment of mind. Lots of folks suffer intensely from homesickness. If you have never been homesick, you don't know what a real thing it is. I would just as soon have a toothache as to be homesick. It is a nagging, overwhelming, distracting, distressing experience. No matter how sunny or dry or high or otherwise desirable the location may be, if the patient is homesick he won't make much progress toward recovery.

One of the greatest problems associated with the care of tuberculosis is the social one. If the patient goes to a resort overwhelmed with worries about what is to happen to the family he is leaving, the conditions are very unfavorable for recovery. We can not disregard the importance of a carefree and happy mind in connection with the cure of this disease.

If money is plentiful and the season of the discovery of the ailment is late fall or winter, I would say by all means take the patient to a warm, dry climate. On the other hand, if the discovery is made in the spring or early summer, all the desirable features of a southern climate can be found in the North.

The thing I want to impress upon the victim of tuberculosis is that he can be cured in his own dooryard if he is willing to conform to certain simple rules. The back porch or the side porch or a tent on the lawn, if intelligently used, is a place as hopeful of cure as a bed in the finest sanitarium in the world. It is not luxury of environment or perfection of equipment that will bring about the cure. Rest, sunshine, fresh air, milk and eggs, and a contented mind—in these will be found the secret of the cure of incipient tuberculosis.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Alexander the Great was king of Macedonia when he was twenty. He had conquered a fair share of the world while he was still a young man. Although he was called "the Great" he was not a great man because he lacked the one thing needful. He lacked self-control. When self-control is lost all is lost. Alexander did not live long. Thousands of other men have shortened their lives and brought down unhappiness upon themselves and those they loved because they lacked that one thing.

Two things to teach a child: first, that a straight line is the shortest distance between two points; second, self-control.

A little while ago astronomers saw a gigantic group of spots on the sun's eastern edge. The full length of the group as measured by the astronomical instruments was 137,933 miles—about twenty times the diameter of the earth. You see you have to be pretty large to get a place in the sun where anybody can see you. When a sun spot faces the earth it has an effect on our weather. We have felt it lately in rains and hurricanes.

Thoreau, great naturalist, writer and friend of Emerson, was once locked up for refusing to pay his poll-tax. He didn't believe in that kind of tax and he refused to conform to law and custom. That sort of thing did not make Toreau great. He was great in spite of such an attitude toward society.

Some men think they are doing something smart and creditable when they are holding out against a recognized custom to which others give assent. This unconventionality is not the sign of ability. It is often a sign of what might be called dumbheadedness.

Young Colonel Roosevelt is right when he assails our national habit of going to extremes. We suffer from intemperance in trying to do good. We see an evil, and instead of attacking it sensibly and with care we try to cure it by some extreme measure which throws us into a worse state than we were in before.

Mistakes can not be cured by mistakes.

Today's Worst Story.

BY WILL ROGERS

My wife and the two younger hopefuls are with me now, and naturally I have to dig up some children stories to pull on them. Here is one that I think is a pip.

A Sunday-school teacher was showing her class through one of the wonderful big London museums and there was a marvelous painting of the old Coliseum in Rome. It showed the lions devouring the Christians. Everybody was very impressed as she was explaining it. One little girl was heard to be sobbing and the teacher turned to her.

"Ah! the poor little thing; it is breaking her heart! Those terrible old people in those days doing things like that! Never mind, dear, that's all over now, and those naughty people who had it done have all been punished. So don't cry for the poor Christians any more!"

"Oh! But look at that," said the little girl, pointing her finger. "That poor lion out there hasn't got a Christian!"—Copyright, 1926.

A. An authority says that Japanese mink comes from Japan. It is a dyed fur and naturally will not wear as well as fur that has not been dyed. In many cases, however, people who have had coats made from a good grade of this fur have been well satisfied with its wearing qualities. Before being dyed it is a pale yellowish color.

Q. Will you kindly advise me which of the following is correct: "This firm has fifty acres of land which ARE not being used." "This firm has fifty acres of land which IS not being used." E. M. R.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Sept. 29.—The Bowery continues to unroll its panorama of high lights and shadows. In the early morning are the hungry groups that riot about the labor agencies where chalked bulletins herald jobs as track laborers, dish washers, porters and the like.

The restaurants with the fare frosted on windows offer such hardy breakfasts as steak, potatoes, coffee and pie for twenty cents. And there are the two-cent coffee and bun stands which draw the collection of matutinal bums.

Near Duane street was a woman in a bedraggled skirt and discolored eye in an alcoholic haze haranguing an imaginary foe, while early workers merely glanced and walked on. The Bowery is used to early morning wrecks with blood-shot glares.

The cheap lodging-houses disgorge their sluggish patrons who must make way for the day sleep of night workers. The hallways reek of gas and stale pipe smoke and lead up to grim catacombs where dispirited men try to banish reality in dreams.

But the Bowery is not all sordid and squalor. There are department stores as brisk and showy as those uptown. There are resplendent banks—one is among the richest in the world. There are beauty and manicure parlors and garish restaurants.

There is a pawn-broker who rides to work in a carriage, carries a gold-headed cane and wears a silk hat. There are well-dressed young ladies whose smile of indulgent disdain is not far removed from their sisters of Fifth avenue.

Yet the overtone of poverty is there—as pronounced as zebra stripes. The old men and old women, like decrepid alley cats, prowl about, hunting ferret-like for something they seem to know they will never find. It is old age penury as its worst.

Those vibrant young girls seen lunching daily with the foxy type of old men play difficult roles well. They hang on every word and put so much vitality into their glances and smiles that they are deserving of the reward—whatever they may be.

* * *

Somehow the aging Romeos who have divorced their wives, moved to the club and tuned up for a new pace do not appear to get so much fun out of the adventure as they possibly imagined. They are conscious that most of their friendships are for a price. I once heard a Lorelei complain petulantly to her aged escort shortly after midnight: "I have spent the evening with you and all I get out of it is a wilted orchid and a hiccough."

These romantic attachments usually wind up with a "you ain't done right by our Nell" climax and the antiquarian discovers this baby talk has jolted him out of a sizeable check. But boys will be boys—and a new crop toddles along every season.

A theatrical producer tells of a time when he touched financial shoals and got backing from a sixty-five year-old gentleman. It was stipulated in the agreement that the most beautiful of the girls would be willing to lunch with him when he desired. He was a harmless duffer who merely enjoyed the reflected glory of a stage beauty.

FEDERAL COURT REVERSES DECISION AT CHEYENNE

St. Louis, Sept. 29—Attorneys for Harry F. Sinclair today were expected to take an immediate appeal to the Supreme Court for a reversal of the decision of the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals, rendered here late yesterday, returning to the United States government the famous Teapot Dome naval reserve.

The decision reversed and remanded the decision of the Federal District Court at Cheyenne, which had approved the lease made to Harry F. Sinclair and his associates in the Mammoth Oil Co., through former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall. Aside from giving up the huge reserve of 3,000 acres, Sinclair and his associates are required in the decision to give an accounting to the government for the value of the oil and other petroleum products taken from the lands since they were leased. The Mammoth Co. is enjoined from trespassing on the lands in the decision which become effective in 90 days.

The decision rendered by Circuit Judge William S. Kenyon, former United States senator from Iowa, was concurred in by Circuit Judge Arba S. Van Valkenburgh, of Kansas City, and District Judge William A. Cant, of Duluth.

BURKE HURLS CHALLENGE IN REFERENDUM BATTLE

Cleveland, Sept. 29—Interest in the primary referendum fight was heightened today when State Senator J. F. Burke of Elyria, chairman of the Primary Defense League, hurled a challenge at his foes, offering a $1,000 contribution to their cause if they could prove that 50 per cent of their petition circulators were bonafire persons.

The charges of additional gross irregularities were contained in a letter written by Burke to Charles L. Knight, of Akron, chairman of the committee supporting the amendment.

"Our judgment is that not one-fourth of the circulators are genuine persons and we have affidavits to prove that not one-half were bonafire," Burke said today.

The letter was written, Burke said, after an executive meeting here last night when Miss Meta W. Peters, in charge of investigating alleged petition irregularities, reported gross discrepancies.

FIRE LOSS PRACTICALLY COVERED BY INSURANCE

Damage done by the fire which partly destroyed the home of William G. Wood on Summit-st early Tuesday evening was almost fully covered by insurance, the owner states. Damage to the building, which was fully insured, amounted to about $2,500 and there was $1,009 insurance on the furniture, which was damaged to the extent of about $1,500.

Mr. and Mrs. Wood were away from home and the fire was not discovered until the flames, eating their way from the furnace room, where the blaze started, caused the kitchen floor to fall through and the crash was heard by neighbors. The department at the Central Fire Station was immediately summoned and the property was saved from complete destruction.

This was the second serious fire in the city recently, the other having resulted in about $10,000 loss at the plant of the Smith Mattress Co. on Blaine-av about four weeks ago.

TO TAKE VACATION

A. G. Farmer of 551 N. Greenwood-st, janitor at the Y. M. C. A., will begin a two-weeks vacation Oct. 1.

Conduct is three-fourths of life, so said Emerson. Not what you "think."

BATTLE HOLDS DESTINIES OF TWO CANDIDATES

Both Mills and Smith Look into Future and Make Statements

New York, Sept. 29—The off year political battle in New York this year, which holds the destinies of one, possibly two, presidential possibilities, gave promise today of being the hardest fought in a generation. The colorful personalities involved and the circumstances attending both the Republican and Democratic state conventions just concluded, have made this a recognized certainty.

For five weeks, it is to be a slam-bang fight, with no holds barred, and no quarter asked or given.

Representative Ogden L. Mills, who accepted the task of opposing "Al" Smith's thrust at a fourth term as governor, supplied the incentive for the Republican effort.,

Both Look Ahead

"If Tammany goes back to Albany this year with two billions of dollars to spend and the state government to reorganize in the next two years, you will not oust Tammany from Albany in this generation," he warned.

There were many who believed his words. To which the Democrats reply:

"We must re-elect Al, this year or relinquish all hope of ever seeing him in the White House."

These are the spurs. Thus the issues have been drawn. It will be a hot and bitter fight. That much is conceded on all sides.

The democrats are supremely confident. Their leaders talk of a half million majority for Al.

Wagner Opposes Wadsworth

The Democrats now have put up to oppose Wadsworth, one of Governor Smith's closest personal friends, Justice Robert F. Wagner. With the governor Justice Wagner enjoys the distinction in 14th-st of being one of Tammany's favorite citizens. He accepted the nomination only on the condition that the organization "go down the line" for him from top to bottom.

Smith gave him that personal pledge.

Thus, irrespective of whether there has been trading in the past, it seemed certain today there will be little, if any, this year.

Governor Smith himself gave open recognition to his state of affairs when he told the delegates at Syracuse from the platform:

"I'm going to talk plainly.

"There has been a good deal of talk that Jim won't do anything to hurt Al and that Al won't do anything to hurt Jim.

Added Complication

"I have a great deal of respect for the senior senator from New York, but I don't care to see him remain any longer in the senate because he does not, in my opinion, fairly represent the progressive thought of this state. Our political thoughts are as far apart as the poles."

The wet and dry fight, which centers around the referendum order by the legislature, is but an added complication to this interesting struggle of personalities.

Rev. Mr. Knepp brought his pastorate here to a close two weeks ago and has occupied the pulpit at Defiance the last two Sundays and Rev. Mr. Howard preached here on the same days. Inability of the former Defiance pastor to vacate his parsonage before this week caused delay in arrangements of Rev. Mr. Knepp and Rev. Mr. Howard for moving their household goods.

from the H Pabst mine mouth where late yesterday a rescue crew had worked its way over to the wrecked G shaft and had succeeded in reaching the 265 level.

During the day, they reported that the G shaft had a strong current of air passing through it, although there were obstructions overhead. This rescue party now is about 900 feet below the trapped miners.

Braves Dangers

Extraordinary seldess efforts have been demonstrated in the work being done in this section of the mine. One man with a squared piece of wood strapped over his head, slowly works his way upward, using a long iron poker to loosen the debris above him. As the loosened earth and rock fall about him, fellow workers carry it away. For all this man, who is leading the party, knows he may loosen tons of debris at any moment and be buried in the shaft. The prospect of such a fate, however, does not stay his efforts.

The diamond drill, which is punching a two and a half inch hole toward the trapped men from the second level of the mine has bored through about 50 feet. Hard rock may at any moment deflect the drill and seriously interfere with its progress. The work of rebuilding the G shaft in which the cave-in occurred is going on at a steady, slow rate. Today the men had retimbered and relined the shaft to a point about 110 feet below the second level.

the Western Union Lines from Vera Cruz yesterday said:

"A cyclone passed over the city at 11:05 o'clock this morning. Our office was not damaged but we lost our power."

An official railroad message said the tracks in the city along the water front were under five feet of water and that those in the outskirts of the city were under two feet of water.

The hurricane was reported traveling in a northerly direction. The storm raged about Vera Cruz City for two hours the wind reaching a velocity of a hundred miles an hour. Then it swept westward through central Vera Cruz state to the border of the state of Puebla, wrecking all buildings of lighter construction. It left the city of Vera Cruz without light or power.

around the corner of the box car and threw the empty sacks into the stockyards nearby. The engineer said that he removed the sacks from the yards. Several empty cement bags were presented in court to uphold his statements.

Oberlander asserted that he did not question Redd at this time but investigated the contents of the box car from which Aller's employe had leaped. He found several sacks of cement, seal broken, containing from 86 to 88 pounds instead of the usual 94 pounds, the highway man stated.

Oberlander testified that he had approached the cement cars the morning of the discovery from the west, instead of from the east, as he had done prior to that time.

DARK UNDIES

While pink, flesh and orchid probably will continue staple colors for lingerie, the vogue for the darker fall colors has necessitated a change in underwear tints, so that the garments may match the frocks above them. The so-called wine reds are duplicated in combinations and vests as are the darker blues, browns and greens.

CONGRESS' "FEMININE BLOC" MAY INCREASE 33 PER CENT.

The "Feminine Bloc" in Congress

Washington, Sept. 29—Congress in general is taking stock, now that the primaries are over. And the "feminine bloc" is very cheery. For all three of the former incumbents have been renominated and another woman may soon join them. She is Mrs. John W. Langley of Kentucky, who won the Republican nomination from her district. Her election is practically conceded.

Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts gained renomination, according to election returns from the Bay State.

California voters put over Mrs. Florence Kahn (Republican) by a huge margin, indorsing her stand for modification of the prohibition law and her efforts to aid women in industry as well as World War veterans.

That New Jersey voters approve the way Mrs. Mary T. Norton (Democrat) performed her duties at Washington was evidenced by her nomination for another two years.

While Mrs. Norton and Mrs. Kahn are outspoken in their demand for modification of Volsteadism, Mrs. Langley is hailed as a dry favorable to the Anti-Saloon League.

A soft pedal was put on prohibition by Mrs. Rogers in her fight for return to congress. She does not consider prohibition an issue. She said she was ready to follow the dictates of her constituents on that question.

Mrs. Langley is virtually conceded election in the old "moonshine belt" of Kentucky. Her home is at Pineville.

She has indicated her intention to name her husband, former Representative Langley, as her secretary. He is in the Atlanta federal penitentiary for violation of the prohibition laws.

The feminine bloc in congress during the last session centered their efforts chiefly toward aiding women in industry and World War veterans.

Active on Committees

Mrs. Rogers, whose home is at Lowell, Mass., in the heart of the textile district, is a member of the house committees on expenditures in the navy department, industrial arts and expositions, woman suffrage and World War veterans' legislation. She succeeded her deceased husband in congress.

San Francisco, Cal., is "home" to Mrs. Kahn. She also succeeded her husband in congress. Committees of which she is a member are coinage, weights and measures; education, expenditures in the war department, and census.

She played an important role at the last session in "spiking" a bill calling for federal regulation of the motion picture industry.

House committees on labor, District of Columbia and World War veterans' legislation found Mrs. Kahn an active member.

JEWELED HAT ORNAMENTS

Nearly all the soft felt hats now so popular are adorned with one or more jeweled ornaments. These may take any variety of form provided they sparkle, and they may be posed at any point on either crown or brim that the fancy of the wearer selects.

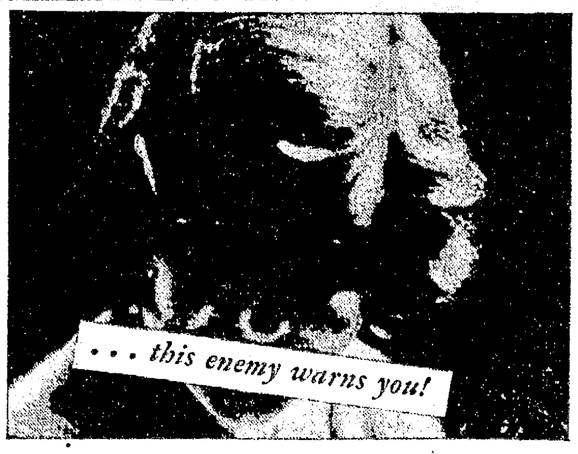
BEAVER AND VELOUR

The beaver gave its name to the glossy headgear of which grandfather and grandmother were so proud, and, while the day of the beaver has passed, an imitation of the beaver's pelt is one of the dominant notes in millinery today. Velour is being widely used in the fall styles. With its smooth, rich, glossy surface, it is especially adapted to the fall colors.

CHARMS ARE POPULAR

Gri-gri, or heathen gods, are popular charms. A tiny Chinese idol in terra cotta or green sandstone, an Egyptian scarab, anything to "bring luck", is hung round the neck by slender platinum chains. These tiny treasures are cut in quartz or rock crystal. Beautifully carved, they are very costly, and mostly come from the east, as it is doubtful whether any but patient natives could produce them.

Three Chicago girls have set what they claim to be a record for their sex by climbing stairs of a skyscraper up 472 feet in 13 minutes.



4 out of 5 start too late

Among the people you see today, four out of five past forty (and many younger) are victims of Pyorrhea—simply because they started too late to protect teeth and gums.

Pyorrhea starts with tender, bleeding gums. Unchecked, it undermines youth and health and often results in loss of teeth, neuritis, ulcers, rheumatism or other serious diseases.

But have no fear. If you start in time, you can prevent or check the inroads of Pyorrhea. See your dentist at least twice a year. And start using Forhan's for the Gums.

This dentifrice prevents Pyorrhea or checks it. It is the formula of R. J. Forhan, D.D.S., a recognized specialist in Pyorrhea.

Forhan's firms the gums, keeps them healthy. It protects teeth from decay-breeding acids and keeps them white.

Don't gamble with health! Start the Forhan morning-and-night habit, now. Teach your children to use it, too, as health-insurance. Play safe. Get a tube today. At all druggists', 35c and 60c.

Safe from whispering tongues

Forhan's Antiseptic, a new product, most powerful, safe antiseptic mouthwash known, has no tell-tale odor of its own. Keeps you safe from whispering tongues. Pleasant, refreshing. Try it.

CHAPTER FIVE

[illegible] Brazenose is a [illegible] who has a habit of getting [illegible]. It's probably because [illegible] mother named him Percy [illegible]. He's really a good [illegible] he doesn't take anything [illegible] including the business [illegible] Heaven and Earth to his dad [illegible] woman calls Piggy into [illegible] for a stern session. It [illegible] that Piggy has done a sensational high dive to save a man [illegible] drowning. The papers play it up—Brazenose Senior hates to see his name in the paper. But his father's indictment waxes warm, reporters are unpleasant and Piggy leaves, promising to stay out of sight for a few days—and behave himself. He starts for New York but at the Hudson ferry a man, of his own general type accosts him and explains that he is unable to meet a certain young lady at Grand Central that she must be met by someone—and will Piggy do it, as a matter of chivalry? Sure says Piggy. With a vague description of her he spots her in the crowds and steps up to her. The young lady is disconcerted. She was to have married that other chap. She is independent, very, and declines to trouble this handsome stranger.

CHAPTER FIVE

"YOU will trouble me, unless I see you out of this mess," Piggy retorted, longing to get his hands on the man who had caused it. Being both unanalytical and inexperienced in emotion, it did not occur to him that she manifested neither the symptoms of disappointed love nor the proverbial fury of a woman scorned. He thought merely that she was a game little sport who was taking a severe shock uncommonly well. "There must be something I can do."

"There's nothing anybody can do now. Unless—Perhaps you can tell me where to go to find employment? I don't know."

"Employment?" he echoed stupidly. "You? What kind of employment?"

"I might teach French. I speak it well. And I paint pretty well. I suppose I could do place cards and lamp shades and things like that. Or perhaps I might sell things in a shop?"

Piggy was no connoisseur of feminine apparel, but he did know something about leather, and the bag at her feet was not only expensive, but seemed to harmonize with the rest of her belongings. As he phrased it in his own mind, she looked like a million dollars.

"Well, we can't settle that here," she interrupted. "I can't go anywhere until I know how I'm going to pay for it. I just gave the last cent I have in the world to that porter." Piggy gaped at her incredulously and she gave a little shrug, adding with a gleam of inspiration: "Oh, of course, a pawnshop! That's what one does first, isn't it? Do you know of one near here?"

"Rats! You can't go to a pawn shop. I'll loan you all you need," said Piggy impulsively.

"I can't let you do that."

"Well, you can't turn yourself loose in New York without any money," he countered. "You might—why, anything might happen! And you're not going to a pawnshop, either. Now you be sensible. You don't know me, so you'll just have to take my word for it that I'm all right. And I'm going to make sure you're taken care of until you can hear from your friends. There aren't any women in my family—just dad and me—so I can't take you home very well, but if you won't go to a hotel, let me take you to my aunt, Mrs. Cotton Dollard. If you don't know who she is, you can look her up in the social register."

"Oh, no no!" Again she shrank a little. "You mustn't—I can't— you don't understand—" When she saw his astonishment, she controlled herself, adding more calmly: "You're very kind and I do appreciate it, but there are reasons—well, I can't explain. But I can't go anywhere with you. If you really want to help me, you'll just forget all about this—and me."

"All right," he responded promptly. "I'll forget it. As far as I'm concerned it never happened. But only on condition that you'll let me loan you enough money to see you through until you can hear from your friends, or else let me buy you a ticket back to wherever you came from."

She shook her head, turning her face away. "I'm not going back. I can't. I came here to do something, and I'm going to do it in spite of—of everything!"

"Bully for you!" said Piggy cheerfully. "Then that's settled. The next thing is to find out what you'd better do meanwhile. Let's go over to Sherry's and find a corner where we can talk. There won't be anybody there at this hour. You've had a jolt, and a glass of wine will brace you up. After a while we'll have some lunch. Come on."

Picking up her bag, he led the way to the cabstand, and she followed. Neither of them noticed that a small, dark man, who had been loitering near by while they talked, apparently idly watching the changing crowds, came suddenly to life and strode after them, his brow furrowed by perplexity. He took the next hansom after theirs and told the driver to keep them in sight.

When Piggy found himself seated in the hansom beside this strange young woman he was conscious of a certain surprise. Theretofore, as has been said, women has held no particular place in his life, and even in daydreams he had never pictured himself as a possible squire of dames. Yet here he was to some extent espousing the unknown cause of this unknown girl, having voluntarily and insistently undertaken to protect and finance her—for how long a time he could not even guess.

However, he had done it not because she was a girl, but because in spite of that handicap she was a thorough going little sport and in hard luck. She had taken, standing, what he imagined would have been for most girls a knockout blow. She didn't even whimper about it. As a matter of fact, he told himself, she didn't act like a girl at all. Neither making eyes at him, nor assuming the consciously unsentimental manner of the damsel aspiring to be regarded as a possible pal, nor yet taking it for granted by virtue of her femininity that it was his business as a male to serve her, she seemed quite simply and naturally to forget him. Sitting in her corner of the cab, her brown eyes absently fixed through her thick veil upon the crowded panorama of the streets, she retired within herself as any fellow might have done, and it was as a fellow in trouble that Piggy yearned, in his own vernacular, to give her a leg up.

If she had exhibited a tendency toward gushing gratitude, or toward tears, or if she had betrayed the slightest curiosity about him, or any indication of expecting anything of him, he might have turned shy and elusive himself. Instead, she ignored his presence, lost in the mystery of her own thoughts, and they drove the few blocks from the station to Sherry's old place at Forty-fourth Street and Fifth Avenue almost in silence.

Quicksands of Love

BY ADELE GARRISON

DOES DREAM FORERODE ILL?

I FOUND it impossible to sleep but fitfully during the night following the cryptic cablegram from Hugh Grantland which he had asked me to relay to my father. I could not rid myself of the notion that the message portended something ominous to the only senior one of my blood left to me. When the dawn came and found me still with wide open eyes, I knew that I must do something drastic to induce even two hours of sleep, for I had a hard day's schedule ahead of me.

Moving softly, so that I should rouse no one else in the house, I went to the bathroom and dashed cold water over my face and neck until I felt somewhat refreshed. Then I put on a costume suitable for a swift walk, and going down stairs, let myself out of the front door and started up the parkway below the Drive.

Ordinarily I love walking, and especially at that hour in the morning which is the quietest and the loveliest, when the sun is just beginning to show. But this morning there was nothing of enjoyment in the walk, and though I tramped a long way up the Drive, I got no exhilaration from the exercise. But I did succeed in tiring myself out, and I knew that when I returned to the apartment I should be able to get the nap I so sorely needed.

I was more tired than I thought, however, and when I had retraced my steps to within a half mile of the house, I sank down in a secluded seat in an angle of the wall separating the parkway from the Drive above it. It was one completely hidden by shrubbery, and no one passing would have dreamed that anyone was sitting there.

With my head against the back of the seat, I gave myself up to the fatigue resulting from my walk, and though I made several resolutions to get up and go home they faded away in the making, and in a few minutes I was fast asleep.

How long my involuntary nap lasted I do not know. I remember vaguely that I shifted my position several times, because my neck felt cramped from the hard seat. I suppose the fantastic dreams — nightmares rather — which came to me were caused by the same thing.

For relentlessly one figure flitted through my dreams, that of a woman I often have thought was my Nemesis—the figure of Grace Draper. When I finally wakened I knew of course what had brought her image to my mind when I had not thought of her in years. It was Dicky's sneering appellation of "Faithful Fido" to Hugh Grantland. This through the association of ideas had revived my terrified remembrance of her. Hotly I had resented Dicky's use of the term because I felt that both of us owed all fealty to Hugh Grantland for his rescue of our boy from the kindapper to whom Grace Draper had consigned him. Naturally I had relived the whole of that terrorized time in the moments of my angry dispute with Dicky over the matter, and the figure of the woman who had caused me so much mental anguish was vividly before me.

I suppose subconsciously the fear of her never has left me. At any rate, in my dreams upon the park bench, there was omitted no horrible incident of her long vendetta against me because of her crazed love for Dicky which later had turned into even more frenzied hate.

My dreams went back to the day when Dicky and I first saw her, upon the train to Marvin when he and I, but a few months married, were looking for a little home in the country. Vividly I saw her in the marvelous young beauty that was hers, and saw also Dicky's excitement in finding the "perfect model," as he dubbed her. My dreams swept on to the first time she attempted my life when she dived beneath me while we were swimming in the ocean and sizing my ankle pulled me under the water. There followed in quick succession other dread pictures, of her shooting of Dicky and the stabbing of herself, and of her almost successful plot to kill Dicky during his trial flight on the aviation field during the World War. The kidnapping of Junior and the plot against the Government in which she unsuccessfully had tried to have me given up to a terrible death—but one of them was omitted, and through them all, I heard her voice saying over and over again, with the quintessence of venom in its tones:

"It is a good scheme. We will drag her through the mire!"

CENSUS REVEALS ASTONISHING FACT

8,549,511 Working Women in United States

MRS. W. M. BAILEY
R. F. D. No. 6, BOX 27, ATLANTA, GEORGIA

Many Say Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helps Keep Them Fit to Work

8,549,511 women would be a vast army. According to the 1920 Census of Manufactures, that is the number of women and girls employed in all trades in the United States.

Napoleon said, "An army travels on its stomach." This army of women travels on its general health. Every working girl knows that time lost through illness seldom is paid for and seldom can be made up. Employers demand regularity. If she wants to keep her job or hopes for a better one, she must guard her health.

Atlanta, Ga.—"My system was weak and run-down, and I was tired. I was this way for five years or more. I read your advertisement in the papers and I decided to try your medicine, the Vegetable Compound, but I did not begin to take it regularly until after I was married. I got so much good from it that I feel fine and have gained in weight. I work in a broom shop, but my work is not so hard on me now, and I keep my own house, and work my garden, too. I am telling all my friends of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and how it has helped me."—Mrs. W. M. Bailey, R. F. D. No. 6, Box 27, Atlanta, Georgia.

Missouri Woman Helped

Parkville, Mo.—"I am proud to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was so ill that I could not lie down at night. Then I got my husband to go to the store and buy me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I was up and around before the first bottle was gone, although I only weighed about ninety pounds. I took six or eight bottles and was able to do all my housework, washing and ironing, take care of my five boys, and tend to my chickens and garden, where before I had to hire my washing and part of my housework."—Mrs. Anna Cole, R. ALL-DAY SERVICE AT BYHALIA IS BLESSING

Byhalia, Sept. 29—The all day service held at the Friends' church, Sunday, was well attended and proved a blessing to many.

Rev. Evangeline Reams, field secretary of the Friends' Rescue Home, Columbus, brought the morning message.

A picnic dinner was enjoyed at the noon hour.

Rev. S. J. Mosher of Cardington, superintendent of Ohio Yearly Meeting of Friends, gave a soul searching message in the afternoon.

Rev. Reams spoke again in the evening in her own heart touching way, and following a short prayer service around the altar, presented the needs of the home, thus giving those who desired a chance to help in this phase of God's work.

Rev. Mosher was accompanied by his wife and two sons. Rev. Reams spent Monday and Tuesday at Rev. Bowerman's while she canvassed the community for donations for the home.

Byhalia News

Byhalia, Sept. 29—Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Benton and family and Mr. and Mrs. Heffner and family all of Lima, spent the week-end with Supt. and Mrs. R. Harman.

Miss Myrtle Clarrige is on the sick list.

Attend Funeral

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lingrel, Mrs. Lawerance Lingrel and Mrs. Mary Watts attended the funeral of Mr. Warner at Richwood Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Etta Moody of Marion spent Sunday with her father and daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Goal Southwick and little daughter spent the week end in Columbus with Mr. and Mrs. Clair McAllister.

Elihu McAllister was home from Marion Business College over the week-end.

Miss Isabel Green spent Sunday in Ada, the guest of our Byhalia girls who are in college there.

Visits Parents

Miss Mildred Spain spent the week end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gail Spain.

Word comes from Herbert Coons of Hollywood, Fla., that he escaped with his life but lost nearly all his property.

The initiation of the freshmen was held Friday night at the schoolhouse, with about 60 in attendance. A splendid time was enjoyed by all, unless it were the freshmen, who can now, after passing safely through this ordeal, consider themselves a real part of high school life.

If no chance to do "one good deed every day" turns up, pass somebody a nice compliment. Why waste the day entirely?

TELEPHONE COMPANY ASKS RATE INCREASE

Kenton, Sept. 29—An application for an increase in telephone rates in this city, was filed yesterday by The Kenton Telephone company with the public utilities commission in Columbus. The company asks that the new rates become effective November 1.

Ten-party business line, rural, $2.75.

Ten-party residence line, rural, from $1.75 to $2.25.

Increased cost of operation was given as one of the reasons for the increased rates now being sought. The present rates here, it was said, are much lower than those of nearby county seat towns and even lower than the rates in communities smaller than Kenton. KENTON HIGH AG CLASS HAS 81 ENROLLED

Department Takes Lead Over Similar Schools of State, Two Instructors Required

Kenton Sept. 29—The Vocational Agricultural department of the Kenton high school, has taken the lead among similar schools of the state, with the placing of Prof. W. M. Stuart on a full time basis as assistant instructor in the department, it was announced today by E. R. Tam, head of the vocational agriculture classes.

This is the only Smith-Hughes school in Ohio it is reported, having two full time instructors in charge. There are 81 farm youths enrolled in the various courses of farm study offered.

Students in the agriculture department are divided into four different groups. The freshman group take up field crops and horticulture, the sophomores, animal husbandry, the juniors soil fertilizer and farm management and the seniors agricultural engineering.

When the Smith-Hughes work was first started in Kenton, the classes were limited to but one room in the high school building. The growth of the department during the past three years has been rapid, making it necessary to utilize larger quarters, and as a result one-half of the old South school building has been converted into modern study rooms and laboratories for the students.

158 Cities in Iowa have concrete streets

Sioux City Heads This Procession

Not many cities in the Union have more concrete street pavement than Sioux City. And in Iowa, Sioux City heads the list.

Sioux City began paving with concrete in 1911. There are now over 2,000,000 square yards in the City, all of which is in excellent condition.

This has been a fine investment. Costly street maintenance has been done away with. Concrete streets have dressed up the whole city.

Sioux City's concrete streets are directly linked with the concrete roads of Woodbury County.

Over these permanently paved highways, no matter what weather conditions may be, farmers truck their stock to market regularly. They come to sell. They come to buy and to trade. They come to put more money in Sioux City banks.

And everybody is more prosperous as a result.

Concrete roads and streets always pave the way to prosperity.

MRS. HALL IS CONCERNED OVER "PICTURE" OF HER

Widow of Slain Pastor Adopts Complete Change of Attitude

New Brunswick, N. J., Sept. 29—Apparently adopting a complete change of attitude toward her arrest in connection with the slaying four years ago of her husband, Rev. Edward W. Hall, and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall today talked freely of her reactions to the circumstance. She seemed most concerned with the picture drawn of her by the newspapers and seldom referred to the actual charges, or the possibility of her own guilt or innocence. She expressed confidence in her ability to face the trial ordeal and reiterated her claim of innocence, but beyond that would not discuss the murder charge itself.

She indicated that she had no knowledge of the report that Harry L. Dickman, former New Jersey State trooper now being returned to New Brunswick from the Pacific coast where he was held as an army deserter, had declared again that he had solved the case and broken down the alibi of her brother, Henry Stevens, accused with her, Willie Stevens, another brother, and a cousin Henry De La B. Carpender.

She would not admit that she planned a trip abroad after the trial, admitting that she was becoming somewhat of a skeptic and that there were "certain influences" to give her cause for this attitude.

"No, I am not afraid of the trial," she said. "I am innocent. Why should I be afraid? And I still have my friends—my real friends."

MARION COUNTY REPUBLICANS GO TO STATE MEET

Delegation Headed by B. J. Shelton Attending Campaign Opening in Newark

A party of about 10 leaders of the Marion county Republican organization, headed by B. J. Shelton, chairman of the county central committee, went to Newark today to take part in the formal opening of the party's fall campaign, scheduled for 2 o'clock this afternoon. Fred W. Warner, local attorney who is chairman of the state Republican central committee, is one of the outstanding figures in the meeting. He presided as temporary chairman and delivered the opening address.

Mr. Warner left for Newark last night and gave the principal talk at a meeting of the Newark Rotory club. While his remarks were non-partisan, he discussed government and political questions and strongly advocated maintenance of the present party system as the most effective means of providing the best public service.

Deplores Special Laws

He deplored the enactment of special legislation, saying, "Legislation to benefit a few is harmful to the many. I am opposed to it. We should all participate in government by voting. If government goes to pieces all of our efforts in other lines are of no avail."

Before going to Newark, Mr. Warner attended to arrangements for a huge automobile caravan which conveyed several hundred persons from Delaware county to the Newark meeting today. Bruce Burgess, president of the Delaware Chamber of Commerce, was in charge of the cars which started from the city of Delaware and O. W. Whitney of Sunbury headed a section of the delegation which left in automobiles from that place.

Delaware County sent one of the largest delegations in the state due to the fact that Senator Frank B. Willis, a candidate for reelection and one of the chief speakers in the campaign opening, is a resident of the county.

The Marion County Republicans motored to Delaware and joined the delegation from there in the trip to Newark.

LaRue Game Postponed
Harding Gets Offensive
Galion Convalesces
Ashland Is Quiet
Fans Discover Errors
Scoring Rules
Shelby Winning
Mansfield at Bucyrus
New Suits at Delaware

BY CHUCK HARRISON

HARDING High was scheduled to play a practice game Tuesday with LaRue's eleven. The games was postponed on account of rain. Evidently the Red and Black got enough water and mud at Columbus Saturday where it lost its first game to Central High, 2 to 0.

The local squad is rummaging this afternoon at the fairgrounds, however, for its first home game Saturday with Galion. This league game will be called a 2:30 o'clock.

FROM a newspaper standpoint, Coach Eaton's Galion High eleven will be a favorite when it comes here Saturday to open Harding's home schedule. The Galion riders downed Coach Barnhart's McDowell High team from Ashland last Saturday, 6 to 0, in the first North Central Ohio League game. The Saturday before the Galion boys gave Crestline a warm welcome and won, 19 to 0. Evidently the game here Saturday will be a big defense battle. Galion has not been scored on and to-date no team has been able to gain a yard through Harding's line.

GALION may have one more big lineman to add to their team since the Ashland game, according to Bill Grebe who says in the Galion Inquirer that left guard Phipps was unable to play the last game on account of an injured knee which may keep the star out of the game for several weeks. McClure, right guard, was not expected to be able to start the Galion-Ashland game but he did. That's about what we expect Phipps to do here Saturday.

SPORTS Editor Bill McKee says in the Ashland Times-Gazette that he is badly injured (not in a football game) because what he considers to be some of his best friends have advised him not to predict anything regarding the North Central Ohio League. Well, that's a new one; both the injury and the advice. Of course injuries come frequently in football and can be expected. But advice and predictions are somewhat different.

We admit that possibly it will be best for Ashland not to predict too much, especially since the 6-to-0 Galion defeat.

BY-THE-Way our attention has been called a number of times to one or more errors in the Columbus-Harding story. We have one good consolation and that is the fans must have at least read the story clear through because the mistakes first heard of appeared near the end.

RULES this year have been changed just that usual little bit. But not quite enough to suit the writer. When next year's national football rules committeemen meet in New York their attention will be called to the importance of having each and every substitute report to the official scorer in football the same as in baseball and a number of other outdoor sports. There will be no mistake about that. The substitution rule has been changed some for this year, effecting a penalty providing the substitute is not accepted by the captain; but that only prevents stalling for time and in no way assists the scorers.

WE strongly advocate that the time come when scorers for football will be given a place on the football field the same as other officials. If you have ever attempted to officiate at a game you will readily see our point; to say nothing further regarding the recording of plays made by 22 men.

IN baseball, a more scientific game if we are permitted to so state, the scorer becomes a vital part of the game and is usually relied upon by the playing teams the same as the umpires. If this assistance proves beneficial in baseball, why not in football?

MANSFIELD will be at Bucyrus in another league game Saturday. Before winning the opening game of the season from Danville two weeks ago Coach J. Russell Murphy stated that he was almost convinced that he would have to send to some reliable mail order house to get eleven good men if his Red and White boys didn't begin to show some form. Now we don't know how he feels since losing the big dedication game last Saturday 7 to 6 to Columbus North High.

Forty Women Open Bowling Season Tonight at 'Y'

Twenty Teams are Being Organized in Two Leagues for Other Ten Pin Stars

Eight National League Teams, 12 in Industrial League; Women Organizing, Too; Alleys at Association Are Busy

THE only and best six bowling alleys in the city are busy at the Y. M. C. A.

Forty women, representing the Business Women's Club, will take charge of the place tonight before organizing their teams.

The Phillies took two games from the Steam Shovels Monday night in the first game of the season, which was rolled at the open house party. The high score was 247, rolled by Lee Schuler for the Phillies and indications are that some fast bowling will be reported before the season closes.

Cull Rolls 299

Bowlers here have a high mark to shoot at. J. Cull rolled 299 near the close of the season last year and will be on the alleys again this season.

Twenty teams will represent the National and Industrial League for the men.

Leagues Organize

National League captains will meet Thursday night to organize.

Industrial representatives will get together Friday night. Both league meetings are to be held at 7:30 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. lobby.

Fast Alleys

The alleys have been put into excellent condition and the season is being started with new pins and some new balls. The local alleys are modernly equipped and should be attractive to local pin busters.

POULTRY PRIZES OFFERED BY CLUB

Crystal Way Trap Shooters To Enter Contest Saturday

Crystal Way Gun Club members and others expecting to shoot Saturday afternoon will be in competition for a number of choice young ducks and spring chickens, according to announcement made today by Manager E. A. Alline. Shooting will start at 2:30 o'clock and continue as long as the prize poultry lasts and possibly until dark.

Last Saturday a very interesting shoot was held and some good scores were reported. Many of the local trap shooters are concealing their scores in the hopes of entering the annual turkey shoot before Thanksgiving, without being handicapped.

Guy Koon of Cardington was high scorer last Saturday when he turned in a 24 score out of a possible 25.

"Those little birdies surely looked attractive last week," Mr. Koon said today.

JEWELERS ARE COMING SUNDAY FROM COLUMBUS

Capital City League Pennant Winners To Meet Athletics

The Morrey Jewelers of Columbus, who meet the Marion Athletics at Lincoln Park Sunday afternoon, are just winding up their third season as a team. This year they won the pennant in the fast Capital City League. They have beaten such teams as the Mendel Tailors and Lawyer's Decorators, but were nosed out of the championship of the Central Ohio Federation of Baseball Leagues by West Jefferson, winners of the pennant in the Central Ohio League.

Not Slow Either

The Jewelers will bring to Marion some players who have been in fast company. Among them are "Butch" Wetzel, who managed and played first for Welland in the Michigan-Ontario League. Their first string catcher is Frank Zang, who was in the American Association for two seasons. His brother, Joe Zang, plays shortstop. Melancon of the Eastern League last year has been doing most of the pitching for the Jewelers this season, and will probably start Sunday's game against the Athletics.

Manager Francis Bacon has not announced his lineup for Sunday. An outfielder who has been playing this year in the International League is expected to be in a Marion uniform, and will probably get in the game. It is likely that Main or Reese will be on the mound for the Athletics.

Plans for the big tournament to be staged here on Sunday, Oct. 10, are still incomplete. It is almost certain that one of the competing teams will be Ashland, and that Ed Wells, of the Detroit Tigers, will be on the mound for this team. There is a possibility that Nick Altrock and Eddie Roush will be seen in this series of games. Negotiations are now under way with this pair of stars as well as with other big figures in the national game to get them here for the afternoon. It is hoped that full details of the tournament will be in readiness for announcement this week.

APPRENTICE MEN RECEIVE TROPHY

R. R. King and Caulfield Give Cup; Start Basketball

At the September meeting of the Apprentice Club members at the Marion Steam Shovel Company's plant Monday, Vice President Charles R. King, on the behalf of General Superintendent R. R. King and Superintendent John Caulfield, who were out of the city, presented a handsome loving cup to the winners of the company's recreation ball championship this season. The cup was posted as a trophy when the schedules opened in May.

Acting Captain Clifford Ward of the championship team received the cup and thanked Mr. King for his interesting and helpful talk, the cup and his interest in the club's activities.

The Apprentices defeated the Welders, 8 to 2, in the deciding game Sept. 7.

Following adjournment a number of basketball players signed to play with the club, which expects to place another of the company's trophies in their case before the basketball season closes.

THREE AMERICAN SOUTHPAWS

Shortstops Figure Prominently in Series

Dempsey Recovers Slowly from Loss of Crown and $2,000,000; Champion Tunney is Happy in New York

New York, Sept. 29—Jack Dempsey today relates how he lost the heavyweight championship and Gene Tunney told how he won it.

"I just wasn't there," said Dempsey.

"I won the fight in the first round with a short straight right I had been practicing a year," said Tunney.

Both Dempsey and Tunney, furnishing a striking contrast, are in New York today—not a mile apart.

Tunney, debonair and polished, basks and proud in the possession of the title and the purse he forswolen and defended, brings gamely to be his old jaunty self and pretending he isn't completely crushed over the loss of his crown.

"Don't sympathize with me," pleaded Dempsey. "I'm still a strong man and don't need it."

"What was the matter, Jack—were you sick, that night?" he was asked.

"No," he snapped. "I wasn't I haven't any alibi. Tunney just beat me. He was the best man that night, simple as that. I just couldn't deliver, that's all."

"Tex Rickard's boss", said Champion Tunney to newspapermen. "He is a fine sportsman. Think of what Dempsey lost—not only two million dollars but his title and the acclamation, the glory and the lustre that goes with it."

Dempsey is stopping at a hotel with his wife, the former L. tells. Tex's problem pertains across. He wants to be sent a match, according to business and denies some of his time in court battles were to blame in connection with suits filed by former manager Jack Kearns. He will take in the world series and, if he can, will get a good seat.

Ex-champion admitted he had thought of retiring from the ring. He did not mention a return match with Tunney, nor did he discuss Harry Wills, the negro contender.

LOCAL OFFICIALS SEND SYMPATHY

Members Work To Help Eliminate Future Troubles

Secretary Marion Hinklin, of the Central Ohio Officials' Association, wired a message of sympathy and consolation today to friends and relatives of Patrick McTavey, well known in New York as an umpire in semi-professional baseball, who died last night as a result of injuries received when struck by an enraged fan after McTavey had called a player out at the plate.

One of the reasons why the local officials organized is to help improve American sports for the mutual benefit of the players and the fans.

McTavey made his decision in a game between the Long Island City Cubs and the Centuries.

When the player was called out a fan, said to have been Thomas Carroll, of Astoria, N. Y., ran up to McTavey and struck him in the jaw.

McTavey fell, striking his head on the home plate and was unconscious. He was taken to a hospital and died in a few minutes.

In the excitement Carroll disappeared.

PHILLIES WIN FIRST MATCH

High Scores Evident When Steam Shovels Lose Opener

The bowling alleys at the Y. M. C. A. opened Monday night when the open house party was held and the first game of the season was rolled by the Phillies and the Marion Steam Shovel Co. teams.

After giving the Shovels the first game by a margin of 18 points the Phillies opened up and took the second and third games by margins of 6 and 17 pins, respectively which gave them a margin of 35 points in the grand totals.

Double century marks were made by Fies, Boyd, Warrick and Schuler who scored 205 and 247 in his second and third games.

HENDRICKS IS SIGNED TO MANAGE REDS AGAIN

Cincinnati, Sept. 29 — The Cincinnati baseball club has signed up Jack Hendricks to pilot the Reds through the 1927 and 1928 seasons.

Walter Christenson, popular outfielder, also was given a two year contract. Both were given "nice" increases in salary, the management said.

NO PRACTICE FOR SERIES

New York, Sept. 29—With a steady drizzle falling this morning and occasional rains predicted by the Weather Bureau for this afternoon, early indications were that the Yankees and the Cardinals would be unable to practice today at Yankee Stadium.

The players were idle yesterday because of rain and cold.

ANXIOUS TO VISIT OHIO STATE

VAN HYNING, PRICE, BOB MILLER

Play against Ohio State is a fine dish for football players of the Buckeye Athletic association, and when Wittenberg plays State Oct. 2, at Columbus, three Wittenberg sophomores want to get into the fray. They are Van Hyning of Kent, and Price of Massillon, in the backfield, and Robert "Dutch" Miller of Dover, on the line.

State Loses to Wittenberg 24 to 6; Thirty Years Ago

STATE LOSES TO Wittenberg—2-24

Springfield, Sept. 29—Just 30 years ago Wittenberg College defeated Ohio State by 24-6.

Nearly a third of a century has passed since the team of 1896 rolled good scores against their opponents. Whether the Lutherans can repeat in 1926 is yet unanswered.

From all reports, State and Wittenberg coaches have their hands full of good material. Coach Godfrey of Wittenberg has seen his sophomores in the test session against Kent, and has formed some ideas from that 27-0 victory on just who will be the warhorses for the season.

Among the survivors of the 1896 team is Rev. Dr. E. G. Howard, pastor of the Fourth Lutheran church here. He played tackle in those days and answered to the name of "Zeus".

Wittenberg played State seven times since but without a victory. Scores for these contests are:

1895—State, 36; Wittenberg, 10.
1894—State, 0; Wittenberg, 6.
1894—State, 6; Wittenberg, 18.
1896—State, 6; Wittenberg, 24.
1899—State, 29; Wittenberg, 0.
1901—State, 30; Wittenberg, 0.
1903—State, 28; Wittenberg, 0.
1905—State, 17; Wittenberg, 0.
1906—State, 32; Wittenberg, 0.
1909—State, 39; Wittenberg, 0.
1910—State, 62; Wittenberg, 0.

Eleven games, State 305; Wittenberg, 58 points. State won, 8; Wittenberg, 3.

State's superiority over this period is an average of three touchdowns and a field goal.

BAN NAMES CONNOLLY AND HILDEBRAND AS UMPIRES

Chicago — Tommy Connolly and George Hildebrand have been named by Ban Johnson, president of the American League, as the regular American league umpires for the world series.

Johnson also selected Clarence Rowland as a substitute in case either Connolly or Hildebrand is not able to work because of illness or injury.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

JOHNSON'S RECORD UNEQUALED

GARAGE MEN TO MEET MANSFIELD

Poorman's Will Play Ohio Reformatory Champions Saturday

Poorman's Garage baseball team is making plans to play the Ohio State Reformatory, Mansfield's Industrial League pennant winners Saturday afternoon at Lincoln Park. This game was postponed last week on account of rain Saturday.

The Reformatory team will be accompanied here by guards and their 55 piece band.

A preliminary recreation game will be called at 1:30 o'clock for Marion's picked team and the Mansfield Daily Journal's All Stars.

MIDGETS START PRACTICE EARLY

Strong Quintet Promises Captain Williams Successful Season

Marion's Midget basketball team is starting practice Although handicapped by the loss of two good players, the Midgets expect to play a successful season, according to Captain Williams.

Players trying out for the team this season are William Lowe, Clyde Harriman, Bus Morrison, Elza Needles, Arnold Swartz and Wayne Anthony.

The Midgets will open their schedule the latter part of this month with another good Marion team as opposition.

TOM THEVENOW IS EXPECTED TO STAR FOR CARDS

Mark Koenig Is Inconsistent, but May Be There Too

New York Sept. 29—"When you hit one toward shortstop, be it liner, ground ball or pop fly, start running and never stop, for neither you nor the man at the position will know what he is going to do with it."

This, declared members of the St. Louis Cardinals today, was the advice given them by American Leaguers who have watched Mark Koenig through a season of catch-as-catch-can-miss performances and this, according to the writer is probably the abiding reason why the New York Yankees can not be granted an even chance with the Cardinals in the world series.

A chain is no stronger than its weakest link. A team is no stronger than its shortstop Mark Koenig, shortstop of the New York Yanks, always is a great help to somebody but seldom to the Yanks.

That's his complex; he is a ball player who does the wrong thing at the right time.

Perhaps, you ask, one can not say the same of the Cards' shortstop. Maybe not, but the writer has a hunch that Tommy Thevenow will be one of the stars of the series. I don't think it will be necessary to worry about Thevenow in fact, no one is. Everyone knows pretty well what he is going to do. They can't say the same for Koenig.

All of the others were good. Some of them, indeed, were great. The list, dating back to the start of the modern series in 1903, includes the only Wagner, Joe Tinker, Bill Dahlen, Art Fletcher, Fred Parent, Monte Cross, George Davis, Charley O'Leary, Donie Bush, Heine Wagner, Jack Barry, Rabbit Maranville, Dave Bancroft, Everett Scott, Buck Weaver, Charley Hollocher, Swede Risberg, Larry Kopf, Joe Sewell, Roger Peckinpaugh, Travis Jackson and Glenn Wright.

The only doubtful one in that array is Kopf and he had a very good year when the Cubs won in 1919. The rest are fool-proof.

Three Extras

To describe the costly extra process which lifts Luckies out of the ordinary would take a volume of technical description.

But you can get the results instantly because in a Lucky Strike you'll find the finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos properly aged, perfectly blended—and something more.

You'll realize that there is something about them which gives them distinction.

All because of an extra process—toasting.

When you smoke Luckies, you'll find:

1. Finer Flavor. Toasting for 45 minutes develops the hidden flavors of the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos.
2. Smoothness. Toasting for 45 minutes removes all "bite" and harshness, hence never any throat irritation.
3. Freshness. Then the tobacco is suddenly chilled. This seals the flavor in and insures constant freshness.

Thus the toasting process is an addition. It adds a unique and distinct improvement to a cigarette that has already been made from the finest Turkish and domestic tobacco. It is the reason millions prefer Lucky Strikes.

"It's toasted"

That's Why Luckies Taste So Good

A Story of Boyhood Adventures

[illegible] our cows out to [illegible] around past Youn[illegible] ough, the gutters were [illegible] ses backyard was full, [illegible] told us if we couldn't [illegible] back fence and let the [illegible] into the vacant lot, and [illegible] had to go to school, [illegible] comb like that, so I told [illegible] Jubilee would come back [illegible] the pasture and do it, [illegible] go with me on the way [illegible] they told the Lost Bag [illegible] was going to play some [illegible] he arose when I got back in [illegible] bare feet and got the [illegible] muck to lift up I saw a face on top of the board fence in the water like a face in a looking glass, and I could not see whose face it was, but I thought it would be a good trick anyhow, so I brang the shovel full of muck up where the face was, and whoever it was went down on the other side of the fence spitting like a cat up a tree, and I clumb up the fence and looked over, and the muck had filled his mouth which he had opened to say something with and his eyes and nose and knocked him off the fence, and the vacant lot was as full of water as Younisses mother's lot, and I never did see anyone that was hit all over at once quite as much as he was.

His mother brang him to school just like he was to show him to the teacher, but Youniss told the teacher how it was, and I said I had not seen the Lost Bag of Tripe at all, and the teacher asted him what he had clumb up on the fence to do, and he had not expected that question, so he got red and kept his face shut, and the teacher told his mother she had nothing to do with anything that happened outside of the school-yard.

We went swimming after school. It is all right after a fella gets ducked.

Daily Bedtime Story

BY HOWARD GARIS

Uncle Wiggily and His Friends

[illegible] know what you are going to [illegible] Uncle Wiggily?" asked his [illegible] one morning.

"[illegible] I think so," replied the [illegible] jollily twinkling his pink [illegible] down to show how jolly he [illegible] going to look for [illegible] I always do."

"[illegible] are also, if you will be so [illegible] to get me a bunch of beets," [illegible] the rabbit lady, slyly giving her [illegible] dig in the ribs s he could [illegible] out loud. "I need a bunch [illegible] beets as we are gonig to have com[illegible] for tea."

"I will get the beets after I finish [illegible] for an adventure," replied Mr. [illegible], and so he hopped out of his [illegible] stump bungalow and was soon [illegible] over the fields and through the woods.

All of a sudden Uncle Wiggily heard from the bushes a cry of surprise and a yell shouted:

"Help! Help! O, please stop it! You are shooting my house all to pieces!"

"Ah! I think I am on the track of an adventure," whispered the rabbit uncle. "Some of the bad chaps are shooting a friend of mine. I will arrest them."

But when he looked through the bushes he saw only a spider lady, clinging to her cobweb, which was shaped [illegible] something like a cart wheel. And standing on a log, not far away, were two little Squiggle bugs, shooting from arrows from their bows at the spider lady's web.

"Ho, little Squigglers! You shouldn't do that!" chided Mr. Longears.

"O but please, Uncle Wiggily," buzzed the small Squiggler, "the cobweb makes such a dandy bullseye target to shoot at!"

We just can't help whizzing arrows at it!" buzzed the big Squiggler.

"No matter!" said Uncle Wiggily [illegible] "A house is a home, even [illegible] only a cobweb for a spider lady. But I'll set up for you another target at which you may shoot." With his [illegible] Uncle Wiggily made a black circle on a piece of white birch bark, and then drew rings around the circle making a regular bullseye, and the Squiggle bugs shot their arrows at that.

"Thank goodness you came along in time!" cried Mrs. Spider, as she set [illegible] to spin new strands of filmy [illegible] to mend her web where the [illegible] arrows had gone through. "Thank you Uncle Wiggily."

"Pray do not mention it," begged the [illegible] though he hopped on, not a little [illegible] with himself, and soon he went [illegible] farm and bought a bunch of beets [illegible] wife to cook and serve to the [illegible]

But on his way home with the bunch [illegible] Uncle Wiggily saw Jollie [illegible] the mouse boy, with Squeakie [illegible] cousin mouse, looking very [illegible]

"What's the matter?" asked the rabbit [illegible]

"We want to play football but we [illegible] to play with," said Jollie, [illegible] a hard piece of cheese he took [illegible] pocket.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "I think one of my beets will make a good football for mice." So the bunny chewed the green tops of his bunch of beets, and gave one of them to Jollie, stuffing the green leaves back into his pocket. "My wife will use those for greens," said Uncle Wiggily, as the mice kicked the beet football.

Then he hopped on and pretty soon he saw Mrs. Moo, the cow lady, and she was looking very sad. She said she was hungry.

"Here, take the rest of my beets!" offered the bunny and he gave them to Mrs. Moo, hopping away before she could thank him.

Next Uncle Wiggily met Aunt Lettie, the goat, and she bleated.

"Oh, where can I get some greens for Uncle Butter? He is ill and Dr. Possum says he must have some greens."

"Here you are!" cried Uncle Wiggily.

Uncle Wiggily met Aunt Lettie.

and he gave the lady goat the green beet tops from his pocket, hopping on before she could thank him. And when Uncle Wiggily reached his bungalow, he had no bunch of beets for his wife. He started to tell what had happened but she laughed and said:

"Ha! Ha! made a mistake! I didn't mean beets at all! I meant carrots! So Uncle Wiggily hopped back to the farm and got a bunch of carrots, and nothing happened to them, so the company had something to eat.

So this teaches us that sometimes mistakes turn out happily. And if the gold fish doesn't splash water in the rag doll's eye and make her think it is snowing, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's tail light.

MONEY RATE INCREASE CAUSES STOCK SLUMP

Gradual Decline of Security Prices Follows Bank Call on Loans

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

Railroad stocks strong; industrial stocks irregular; domestic bonds fairly steady; foreign bonds steady; call money 5¼ per cent; grain fairly steady; copper steady; oil reactionary; cotton firm; rubber irregular; sugar steady; pig iron firm; foreign exchange irregular.

New York, Sept. 29—High money rates, diminished buying power and the continuance of professional selling of industrial and specialty stocks accounted for the gradual decline of stock values in an irregular and unsettled market today.

Until the banks drew on the call loan market for funds in preparation for the October settlements, the stock market had exhibited a rallying tendency, under the lead of the railroad, equipment and utility stocks. It was reported in the financial district that, though the call loan renewal rate opened at 5¼ per cent, there was a good volume of funds offered at that rate, and the money situation looked easy. Later these offerings were withdrawn, the banks made demands for additional call funds, and the rate went up to 5½ per cent.

Continuance of the September rate of the steel market by the Iron Age, dicated, according to the weekly survey of the steel market by the Iron Age. This authority does not look for any advances in prices similar to those which were recorded in the final quarter of 1925. August railroad net earnings report, now about complete, have been up to expectations.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Peaches of all varieties swamped local provision houses today after a shortage yesterday.

Lemon free peaches were the most plentiful and the demand for them for canning purposes increased today. Lemon frees were selling at $1.75 a bushel, on even terms with other varieties.

Few dealers in Marion were retailing peaches of any variety at a lower or higher price than $1.75 a bushel today. Smaller quantities in various sized baskets were also available at a corresponding price.

It is believed that this week will be the last great week for peaches this year. Many dealers are expecting a still greater supply for the last two days of the week and after the last rush will probably handle only small quantities.

New Supply of Grapes

A fresh supply of Blue Damsel grapes was seen on Marion markets today, retailing at 50 cents a basket.

Apples are selling at $1.25 a bushel or five cents a pound. Pears today were retailing at $1.75 a bushel.

The supply of leaf and head lettuce and cabbage increased today on local vegetable counters. Despite the additional supply, however, prices remained steady. Leaf Lettuce sold at 20 cents a pound, head lettuce retailed at 10 cents, and cabbage at three cents a pound.

No changes were registered in local meat markets today.

The general retail price of eggs was 41 cents a dozen although a few dealers were getting 43 cents. The farm price continued at 36 and 38 cents.

400 Adult Members of St. Mary's Catholic Church Attend Farewell Reception for Rev. Thomas Kearns

About 400 adult members of St. Mary's congregation attended the farewell reception given last night in the K. of C. Hall, for Rev. Thomas Kearns, assistant pastor at St. Mary's Catholic Church, who left this morning for Lebanon where he will take up his duties as pastor of St. Francis de Sales parish and the mission at Monroe. Yesterday afternoon pupils of the parochial school tendered him a farewell and also presented him a breviary and a gift of money. A draft for $750 was presented Rev. Father Kearns last night by Attorney William P. Moloney as a gift from members of the congregation.

Rev. Father Kearns has served as assistant pastor of the local church for the past nine years, coming here shortly after his ordination. During his sojourn here Father Kearns has won a high place in the esteem and affections of members of the congregation and a host of other friends. He will be succeeded here by Rev. John Hannahan of Springfield.

L. A. Axe Presides

L. A. Axe presided as toastmaster and talks were given by Rev. F. X. Cotter, pastor of St. Mary's, Rev. Father Kearns and Attorney W. P. Moloney. Music was furnished by members of the parochial school orchestra and William McAndrew sang a solo, "Roses of Picardy," assisted at the piano by Miss Ruby Kraft.

Rev. Father Cotter, who acted as spokesman for members of the congregation in bidding farewell to his assistant, paid high tribute to him for his work here. He cited the unusualness of his remaining here an assistant for nine years as a tribute to his earnestness, good will, kindness, charity and self-sacrificing spirit in his work. "He was ever ready to do the work a priest is called on to do," Father Cotter said.

Paid Tribute

"Father Kearns goes to a new field of labor and there will be added incentive to engage in the work of the priesthood," Father Cotter continued. "He will have responsibilities and while the responsibilities will be weighty it is what every young priest looks forward to. While your regard for your priest is personal it is chiefly on account of the fact that he is the dispenser of the mysteries of God. You have assisted so many times when he has offered up the holy office of the mass; you have been the recipient of his generosity along this line. My part of the program will be accomplished when I voice your heartfelt regret for Father Kearns leaving us."

Attorney Moloney Talks

"No one can live in a community and be more or less associated with its members without leaving indelible and lasting impressions," said Attorney Moloney in a brief talk." It would be a pleasant task to dwell upon the tenure of Father Kearns here made so by his ability to understand both young and old. Well might we remember the many kindly and charitable acts of his ministry. He leaves Marion with the entire good will of the people of St. Mary's."

Rev. Father Kearns referred to his associations in Marion as being most pleasant and said that his work here would always be an inspiration to him. He paid a glowing tribute to the boys of the parochial school with whom he has been closely associated in commending them for the spirit of reliability. "If they said they would be any place, they were there, regardless of weather or circumstances," he said.

Talks to Students

Talks were given by Father Cotter and Father Kearns at the farewell given in the school auditorium yesterday afternoon when Father Kearns said good-by to the pupils. Eugene Brown, of the Senior Class, spoke in behalf of the school and Miss Angela Andres read a poem. Children of the choir sang "Hymn to the Little Flower," and Miss Juanita Miller played a piano number, "Fantasia in D Minor," Mozart. Selections by the school orchestra, a violin number by Robert Axe and a song, "God Bless You," by the High School chorus completed the program.

SAY AMERICAN FOREIGN TRADE WILL PROFIT

Successful Negotiation of Stresemann-Briand Accord To Be Responsible

Washington, Sept. 29—American foreign trade and finance will profit materially by successful negotiation of the Stresemann-Briand accord, linking Germany and France politically and commercially, government economic experts declared today.

Experts see two important developments from the American standpoint:

First—Rehabilitated markets in both countries, leading to an increase in the sale of American goods.

Second—A safe outlet for surplus American capital, this, in the case of France, hinging on ratification of the debt pact.

Prosperity in Germany and France are interdependent, in the opinion of American officials, who declared that popular sentiment in both countries eventually will yield to important concessions to make the accord possible.

Germany is particularly anxious to see stabilization of the franc and France restored to financial normalcy, observers said.

Under present conditions, owing to the decline of the franc, France is able to undersell German producers not only abroad but in Germany. French competition of this un-economic sort must be eliminated if Germany is to be successful in its battle to regain pre-war position in the world markets.
